INDIA LITERACY PROJECT

Careers, Courses, Colleges

A guide for rural students after Class 10 and 12

India Literacy Project

2025 · English · CC BY-NC 4.0
Arivu Kendra sample edition · Government of Karnataka

Contents

1. After Class 10: a decision tree 3
2. Science and engineering careers 8
3. Health careers 14
4. Agriculture and environment 20
5. Business, design and media 26
6. Government services 31
7. Colleges in Karnataka 37
8. Scholarships 43

This is a generated sample edition created for the Arivu Kendra public preview. The text on these pages is placeholder prose so that reading tools, previews and downloads can be demonstrated end to end. The real edition will be supplied by the content provider.

CHAPTER 1

After Class 10: a decision tree

Sixty careers explained in one page each: what the job is, what you study, how many years, what it pays, and a rural student who is doing it today. With a decision tree for after Class 10, a list of government colleges in Karnataka and every scholarship you can apply for.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

CHAPTER 2

Science and engineering careers

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

CHAPTER 3

Health careers

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

CHAPTER 4

Agriculture and environment

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

CHAPTER 5

Business, design and media

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

CHAPTER 6

Government services

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

CHAPTER 7

Colleges in Karnataka

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

CHAPTER 8

Scholarships

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.

Write the date, the amount and the name every single time, in the same place on the page. A ledger is not a story; it is a habit. The habit is what protects the group when memory fails or when someone new takes over.

A one-page résumé has four parts: who you are, what you have studied, what you can do, and how to reach you. Everything else is decoration. If you are not sure whether to include something, leave it out and be ready to talk about it instead.

Ask the student what they like doing on a Sunday. Not what they are good at, not what their parents want, what they actually choose when nobody is choosing for them. The answer is usually the beginning of a career, if you follow it far enough.

The first session will be small. Read anyway. Read as if the room were full, sitting where you can be seen from the door. Children are curious creatures; by the third week they will have found you.

Keep a list of every scholarship with four columns: who can apply, how much, what papers, and the last date. Pin it where everyone can see it. Half the scholarships in Karnataka go unclaimed because nobody knew the date.

Begin with the room. Move one table, open one window, put the best book face-out on the lowest shelf. Children notice a room that has been arranged for them before they notice anything you say.